BFA Production Design and Technology Program Application (BF5162)

As you know, you cannot graduate from Ohio University as a General Theater major (BF5137). Students wishing to continue as BA Theater majors or change from a BFA General Theater major to a BA Theater Major (BA5194) do not require a formal application, but should consult with their advisor.

In order to be accepted into a BFA program, you must complete the application process. Students may apply to more than one BFA program (a complete written application, interview and/or audition for each program must be completed).

- Applications for the BFA Production Design and Technology Program are due by: April 9, 2014

  Completed Written Applications (including a current copy of your DARS report) should be turned in to Barbara Fiocchi, Kantner Hall Room 307. Once an application has been turned in an interview time will be assigned.

  A complete application includes a current copy of your DARS report and your responses to the application questions.

- Interviews for the BFA Production Design and Technology will be held on: April 18, 2014 STARTING at 1:00 in Kantner 108.

  Interviews will be scheduled to be 10 minutes in length. You should be prepared to present a portfolio at your assigned interview time, if you would like to also bring a resume it will be collected at the interview.

  The portfolio for consideration for the Production Design and Technology program is not expected to look like one of a graduating student. We are looking for works that demonstrate your creative impulse, visual aesthetic, ability to tell a story, or skills. Your portfolio can include work you have completed in THAR 130 and 131's, light plots, costume renderings, set designs, paint elevations, costumes, or photographs of any work you have created. Additional related and relevant items could also include: sketch books, drawings, paintings, doodling, sound recordings, costumes, collages, masks, jewelry, weapons, furniture, crafts or written works such as poetry.

- Notification letters will be sent to all applicants on May 15, 2014. These letters will be mailed as a pdf to your university email address. If you would rather that we use a different email address, please note that on your application.
