

Associate of Applied Science

Nursing

Upon completion of the nursing major, students will:

- Apply knowledge and evidence based practice to provide a safe and effective care environment for their patients.
- Demonstrate autonomy in assessing and analyzing physiological, psychosocial, spiritual, and cultural patient data for a variety of patient populations across the lifespan.
- Utilize the nursing process while providing care for a variety of patient populations across the lifespan.
- Employ effective communication skills when interacting with patients, families, members of the community, and members of the multidisciplinary healthcare team.
- Execute nursing care in a professional manner adhering to ethical and legal frameworks.