

Keeping Track of Classmates

Dylan Andrews, B.S.M.E. '08, passed away August 26 after an all-terrain vehicle accident. He had one week of summer courses to complete and was to begin work as an engineer at Honda of America Manufacturing Inc. in Marysville, Ohio, this fall. Andrews is survived by his parents, Dana and Connie Andrews, and his brother, Blake, B.S.C.E. '06.

Niki Blake, B.S.C.S. '04, was married to Chris Timmons on Sept. 13 at Wrigley Field in Chicago. Blake and her new husband live in San Francisco, where she is an e-discovery project manager for Stratify in Mountain View, Calif.

Brian D. Carter, B.S.A.S. '94, currently is a captain for American Eagle Airlines.

Clark Green, B.S.I.T. '03, is a design engineer at Sutphen Corporation, where he designs fire trucks.

Jason Forshey, B.S.A. '98, joined the FAA in Cincinnati as a general aviation operations inspector in September 2006.

Joseph Jachinowski, B.S.E.E. '79, received the Ohio University Alumni Association's 2008 Medal of Merit. Jachinowski is executive vice president for product development for IMPAC Medical Systems, the world's leading supplier of clinical and administrative data-management systems for cancer-care providers, which he co-founded in 1990.

Slave Jovanovski, B.S.C.S. '07, won Code Fest, an internal coding competition at VeriSign, where he is a software engineer. More than 75 employees entered the contest, powered by TopCoder. The final round was held in August at the third annual VeriSign Technical Symposium in Miami, Fla.

Michael G. Massay, B.S.I.T. '88, is a senior process engineer for Fidelity Investments in Covington, Ky.

Jeffrey A. Miller, B.S.C.E. '73, received the Ohio University Alumni Association's 2008 Distinguished Service Award. Miller is currently president of J. Miller Management.

Jay D. Pinson, B.S.M.E. '50, retired dean of the college of engineering at San Jose State University (SJSU), passed away September 20 after a brief bout with cancer. He spent 22 years in research and development with the U.S. Air Force and earned M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in engineering from Oklahoma State University before turning to higher education in 1971. He served as associate dean of the University of Dayton's school of engineering, and head of the aerospace engineering program, before becoming dean of the SJSU college of engineering in 1979. During his career, he quietly raised millions of dollars for SJSU, Ohio University, and local charities. He is survived by his wife of 58 years, Eleanore; a daughter, Deborah Leveridge; a son, Jay II, and his wife, Liz; and three grandchildren, Stephanie and Matthew Pinson, and Johnny Russo. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Jay Pinson Endowment of SJSU or the Barbara Russo Endowment of Ohio University.

Joshua S. Rovai, B.S.I.T. '05, is a design engineer for CIMS (Computer Integrated Manufacturing Systems) in Dalton, Ga.

Mark L. Trankina, B.S.A.S. '89, A.A.S. '86, is in his 10th year at Northwest Airlines, flying the DC9. Next year, he will be flying the new Boeing 787, which is currently under construction.

Fanil Khushal Visharia, M.S. '03, is a manager for process and commissioning at Larsen & Toubro Limited's Mumbai office.

Bryan L. Westlake, B.S.I.T. '73, is a manufacturing engineer with Peterbilt Motors in Madison, Tenn. 