

Zane State College – Ohio University Plan

Engineering Technology and Management Program Pathway

Ohio University Lancaster offers a two-year program leading to an Associate of Applied Science with a major in engineering technology. The Engineering Technology program is designed to offer students a technical foundation needed to help solve complex problems by exposing them to real-world applications using hands-on lab courses. Students are taught a variety of manufacturing processes and their related materials as well as skills in quality analysis tools (Lean), occupational safety, mechatronics, robotics, and automation. A large focus equipment mechatronics and robotics and automation. Concentration is on programming, troubleshooting, and repair of manufacturing equipment and systems. The various topics of the Associate of Applied Science degree provide the student with a wide variety of career opportunities. This degree prepares students as an electrical technician, mechatronics technician, and robotics and automation technician. Graduates may work for manufacturers or field service providers to set up and troubleshoot sensors, automated equipment, and robots to ensure productivity. Job titles may include industrial systems technician, automation specialist, or engineering technician, safety technician, and others.

The engineering track provides students with the opportunity to pursue baccalaureate programs offered by the Ohio University Russ College of Engineering and Technology. Students should discuss with their advisors the career pathway that best suits their individual interests.

Admission Requirements

- No additional requirements beyond University admission requirements for freshman or transfer admission.
- Transfer applicants must have a cumulative grade-point average of 2.0 or higher from all institutions previously attended to be considered for admission.

Engineering Technology Major Degree Requirements

To qualify for the Associate of Applied Science or the Associate of Applied Business degree is the completion of 60 credits with a 2.0 accumulative GPA in both the major area of study and all course work attempted at Ohio University. The Engineering Technology major program requires a minimum of 61 hours. A maximum of 15 credits earned through prior learning assessment may be applied to any technical associate degree. You must earn a minimum of 18 semester credit hours while enrolled at Ohio University, and you must earn a minimum of 50 percent of coursework taken to fulfill your major concentration in residence with resident credit as defined in the Graduation Requirements – University wide section. You also must meet Ohio University BRICKS requirements for associate degrees. (See Graduation Requirements – University wide section) To earn a technical associate degree, you must complete an Application for Update of Program(s), available from any college office or regional campus student services office.

Ohio University BRICKS General Education Requirements

Students completing Ohio University's applied associate degrees are required to complete 15 credit hours of Ohio Transfer 36-approved coursework including: Written Communication, Quantitative Reasoning, and Pillars or Arches. To complete the minimum 15 credit hours of Ohio Transfer 36-approved coursework, students may also complete OHIO's Ohio Transfer 36- approved Second Writing course, ENG 2800 - Writing with Research or OHIO's Ohio Transfer 36-approved Oral Communication course, COMS 1030 - Fundamentals of Public Speaking. The General Education equivalency guide lists Zane State College courses that have direct course equivalencies at Ohio University which meet OHIO's general education requirements.
