Communities and companies in Ohio are seeing rapid growth around shale energy development. But many questions remain about the direction of regulations, taxes, environmental and emissions impacts, public health, business attraction and growth, workforce, and more. Join us to hear how the trends in shale development around the region are impacting Ohio and how the experiences of other states can inform Ohio’s path forward for the better.

Our experts include:

- Scott Anderson, National Policy Director, Natural Gas, Environmental Defense Fund
- Andrew Place, Interim Executive Director, Center for Sustainable Shale Development & Corporate Director, Energy & Environmental Policy, EQT Corporation
- Eric Planey, Vice-President, International Business Attraction, Youngstown/Warren Regional Chamber

Moderator: Former Congressman Zachary T. Space, Principal, Vorys Advisors LLC

This webinar is free and open to the public. If you represent the regulated community, industry, state or local government, consumer groups, trade associations, energy & environmental organizations, or have a stake in Ohio’s energy future, we hope you’ll join us.

More information about CE3’s Energy Webinar Series can be found at: http://www.ohio.edu/ce3/resources/webinars.cfm

Please contact Elissa Welch at welche@ohio.edu with any questions.