I. Introduction

The Service Learning component of the SW 2601 course will allow you to experience social services as you prepare to enter the field of social work in the upcoming years. This experience will require professionalism, as you will be working with social workers and other professionals in the field. To become a Social Work major at Ohio University and as stated in the Undergraduate Social Work handbook, you must complete 20 hours of paid or volunteer experience in the area of social services, which must be documented on the “Human Services Experience Form”. The 20 hours of volunteer experience performed for this class will count as one of the Major requirements. Further instructions regarding forms and requirements can be found under “Policies and Procedures”. These 20 hours of Service Learning experience are required to pass SW 2601.

II. Policies and Procedures

A. Hours

This course has a Service Learning assignment consisting of 20 hours of volunteer work at a human services agency or organization. Each student enrolled in SW 2601 must do all 20 hours of volunteer service at one approved location during the semester of the enrolled class unless they receive permission from the faculty member and the Social Work Coordinator due to special circumstances. These experiences will be discussed during class and related to content. You will need to arrange your own setting, but you must get your professor’s approval prior to starting. For choices, see the Potential Locations listed in this manual.

B. Finding/arranging a location

In this manual, you will find listings and contact information for dozens of places that you can volunteer. After choosing an agency/organization that fits your interests, follow the instructions below. Please note that not all agencies listed in this manual can accept volunteers. Many have specific requirements or restrictions. Their preferences are listed at the end of each agency description. If no preference is listed, these agencies may still want volunteers, but no information was gathered from them. Organizations in Athens will be listed in red.

1. A survey was sent out to all agencies/organizations. Check the excel spreadsheet manual for crucial information including: number of volunteers, activities and available times. A link to this excel spreadsheet can be found under the Appendices section of this manual.
2. Once you have identified the agency/organization where you want to volunteer, use the contact information provided in this manual (phone number or email) to contact the agency. Make sure you ask for the volunteer coordinator or the staff member that coordinates such activities.
3. Once you are in contact with the appropriate staff member, make sure to set up an interview, orientation or screening processes per the organization’s requirements. Start looking by the second week of the semester. Please check the excel spreadsheet for more information on orientations and screening processes. You can find the “Agency-Organization Responses” spreadsheet under the Appendices section of this manual.

You will need to regularly attend your volunteer location according to the initial agreement made with the supervisor. In order to pass SW 2601, you have to complete the required 20 hours by the end of the semester. Please plan accordingly.

C. Starting the volunteer process

Once you have made arrangements with your supervisor, you will have to document your experience on several forms.

1) The Human Services Experience Form is filled out in conjunction with your supervisor BEFORE you begin volunteering. This form requests the agency location, supervisor contact information and your previous volunteer experience.

3) Scan and submit a copy of this form into BB under the Assignments tab by the due date assigned by your professor.

4) Track your hours by dates and times, per policy and procedure used at the agency and with your supervisor's direction.

5) Once you have completed all 20 hours, have your supervisor complete and sign the Reference Form. Have him/her put the form in a sealed envelope and hand the sealed envelope in during class on the due date set by your professor.

6) If you want to apply to become a Social Work major, taking this course will cover the volunteer requirement for the application process. You will not need to volunteer again, although continuing to volunteer is recommended. The sealed envelope will be kept for you and submitted with your social work application, if you wish.

D. What if I am unhappy with my volunteer experience?

If you find yourself unhappy with the organization/agency that you chose, please do the following.

1. Approach your supervisor and review the problems that you are having. Tactfully review your concerns, so that your experience can be improved.
2. If the issues are irresolvable after speaking with your supervisor, discuss your issues with your SW 2601 professor. Do not go to the professor before you have tried to resolve the problem on your own with your supervisor.
3. If the only resolution is going to a new location, the professor and student will work together to make other arrangements.

E. Grading

Scores for this assignment are based on the following:

50 points – Complete and submit the Human Services Experience Form into BB by the due date. Special professor approval must be obtained prior to starting your volunteer experience, if you chose a place not listed in the Volunteer or Field Manual.

100 points - Complete 20 hours in one agency or organization that the professor has approved PRIOR to starting to volunteer. Submit in class in a sealed envelope your completed Reference forms.

50 points – Follow assignment instructions fully and correctly, including following due dates.

III. Tips for a successful Service Learning Experience

A. Tips

Safety and common sense tips:

- Get a volunteer job description or a list of specific tasks expected of you at the service location so that you can dress appropriately.
- Wear clothing that is comfortable, modest, and suitable for the service location (i.e.; a t-shirt promoting beer would not be suggested for many locations such as schools or places where individuals in recovery might be present);
- Know who to contact or where to go if you ever feel unsafe or uncomfortable at the service location (please do not just stop going - let your instructor know so that the issue can be addressed and no other student is put in a similar situation).

Safety tips if you are traveling and/or serving at a location on your own:

- Never give clients/consumers your person contact information or see clients outside working situations.
- Make sure someone knows where you are going and when;
- Never go into a private home by yourself; always go at least in pairs;
- Never give a client from a service location a ride in your car;
- Never tolerate sexual or threatening talk or behavior;
- Tell the supervisor at the location and/or your instructor if you ever feel unsafe or uncomfortable at a service location.

(From Ohio University Service Learning Guidelines)

According to the Center for Campus and Community Engagement's Guidelines for Effective Service Learning Partnerships, the following are important aspects of a Service Learning Project.

MEANINGFUL COMMITMENT

In order for the students to have a significant service learning experience, a minimum of 20 hours dedicated to service learning is required. These hours do not have to be face-to-face hours with a single community partner as different classes may establish ties to a number of organizations and students may be required to spend a considerable amount of time preparing for the service learning project. The exact amount of volunteer time with community partners should be clearly communicated. Community partners also commit to spending a sufficient amount of time with students to make this a meaningful experience.

CLEAR EXPECTATIONS

OU students should have clear expectations about the nature of their volunteer work and should understand that in some cases, their efforts might represent only a small, and perhaps seemingly insignificant, fraction of the work being done by the organization.

PREPARATION

Students should prepare for the service learning by researching the community, the target population, and the history and objectives of the service organization. All students should attend a training session and sign any relevant documents.

RESPECT and RESPONSIBILITY

Mutual respect and responsible behavior are key to an ongoing relationship. Students should be informed that they are expected to be respectful of the staff they interact with locally. Students should act with humility as they listen and learn from local experts in the field. Students should expect to work with people from diverse backgrounds and adapt to their way of working. The community partners should also treat the OU students with respect. Students are not paid staff nor are they court-ordered volunteers. Students come from a diverse background and should not be expected to compromise their ethical or religious beliefs.

Failure to act responsibly is a major reason why partnerships fail. A student failing to show up during a scheduled shift not only throws off the organization for that day, but can jeopardize the working relationship of the community partner and OU. Students who are unable to make their commitment should notify the community partner as soon as possible. Likewise, community partners should notify students or the professor of any schedule changes.

COMMUNICATION

The professor acts as the intermediary between the community partner and the students. Contact information for all relevant parties should be easily accessible. A student project manager can be an easy way to maintain weekly contact. If problems arise, they should be communicated so that needed changes can be implemented.

REFLECTION AND FOLLOW-UP

An important element of service learning is a critical reflection on the part of the students to identify how the service learning contributed to their understanding of the curriculum. A reflection on how service learning enhanced the curriculum, sharpened skills, contributed to personal growth, and strengthened understanding of complex social issues can be an important pedagogical device. Both students and community partners should identify areas for improvement and ways in which students could be more fully engaged to support the community efforts.

B. Benefits of volunteering

There are many benefits to volunteering, especially when you are considering entering the social services field. A study done in Australia with first and second year social work students found that volunteering helped to “enhance their understanding of their studies, as well as human service work in general” (Gaston & Kruger, 2014). Geographic Area Served: The agency serves Hocking, Vinton, Jackson, Meigs, Galia, Perry, Morgan, Washington, and Athens Counties in Ohio.

Agency Background and Purpose: Since 1981, Good Works, a faith-based non-profit organization, has been providing shelter, transitional housing and community development projects for our neighbors experiencing poverty and homelessness in rural Southeast Ohio. Today, Good Works seeks to be a “Community of Hope,” connecting people from all walks of life with people in poverty.

Program Descriptions:

The Timothy House: The Good Works Timothy House provides a safe, clean, stable, temporary, but home-like place for people to be while they work on the issues that lead them to become homeless. Keith Wasserman began offering shelter to people in his home in 1981. The current residence of Central Avenue was purchased in 1985, and additional staff were hired to provide 24-hour supervision. Beyond food and shelter, we provide structure, accountability, advocacy, basic case management, and counseling services as available. We seek to make trustful relationships the center of what we do.

Friday Nigh Life: This weekly community event includes a meal, educational programming, and recreational activities. Each week a different local group sponsors the meal, which is provided free of charge to people in the community. The meal is served family style, providing a context for a wide variety of people from different backgrounds to form relationships. After dinner, volunteers put on a kid’s program as educational and social events happen with adults.

Neighbors Helping Neighbors: Through Neighbors Helping Neighbors, we invite small groups of volunteers to visit our neighbors in Athens County, spend time with them, and do labor-intensive projects at their homes. Each year, nearly 500 volunteers provided service to families at their homes in Athens County. Since the program began more than 10 years ago, Good Works has established relationships with nearly 60 families. We are especially focused on helping those who are older, widowed and experiencing disabilities, can no longer care for their property and cannot afford to pay someone to do the work for them. The tasks of the day range from mowing grass, raking leaves, cleaning, painting, home repairs and construction.

Transformation Station: This volunteer opportunity is particularly for people in need of resources such as a vehicle, bicycle, furniture, appliances or non-emergency food. Transformation Station volunteers are invited to serve with us, and in exchange for their time, they earn points through which they receive a thank you gift in the form of an item they need. This opportunity is based on our belief that every person has skills and abilities, and that using these gifts to help themselves brings dignity and personal well-being.

Below are several ways individuals can volunteer to help the Good Works staff facilitate the vision of the Transformation Station:

- Working alongside Transformation Station volunteers: One of the main goals of the Transformation Station is to invite people who are struggling with poverty into a community in which they feel a sense of personal value and equality. Often, this is experienced through doing physical work alongside others. Through humility, we can build relationships with people in need that really bring encouragement and hope. If you like working with people, and want to connect with those in need, you can volunteer to work alongside our Transformation Station volunteers. Practically speaking, this involves working with others on a wide range of projects that match your skills. Construction, repairs, property and lawn maintenance, cleaning, organizing food donations, and mailings are some of the potential tasks. This volunteer opportunity requires a 10-week commitment and takes place on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. For more information, email us or contact Paul Richard at 740.594.3336.

- Lunch-time Host for Transformation Station volunteers: There is nothing like a meal to bring people together! We hope to create a welcoming environment that includes our Transformation Station volunteers in a noon meal. Do you enjoy cooking? A Lunch-time Host would prepare a meal for 5 to 10 people in the Good Works Hannah House kitchen. Food is provided out of our pantry. This is a once-a-week commitment (10 am to 1:30 pm on a Wednesday or Thursday) for three months.

Agency Focus and Clientele Served: The agency provides services to rural people who become homeless, widows, and children experiencing the risks of poverty.

Number of Staff: Approximately ninety at five sites.

Agency Auspices: Non-profit community mental health agency. We are accredited by CARF, Ohio Department of Mental Health and the Ohio Department of Drug and Alcohol Services and the Ohio Department of Youth Services.

Geographic Area Served: Fairfield, Ross, Licking, Franklin and Delaware Counties and the surrounding counties of each of these areas.

Agency Background and Purpose: The Mission of Mid-Ohio Psychological Services, Inc. is to provide community systems and residents of Central and Southern Ohio high quality, cost effective, culturally sensitive, and socially responsible mental health and substance abuse services by delivering direct clinical care, developing highly competent and skilled staff, and promoting effective business structures. Mid-Ohio Psychological Services, Inc. will seek to develop and implement unique and specialized empirically supported services to meet our client's behavioral health need and will seek to ensure that these services are accessible to all who need them.

In 1992, Mid-Ohio Psychological Services (MOPS) was incorporated as a non-profit community mental health agency and was certified by the Ohio Department of Mental Health (ODMH) to provide counseling and diagnostic assessment services. Shortly prior to being certified by ODMH, Mid-Ohio Psychological Services and Mid-Ohio Counseling Center moved to 624 East Main Street where the MOPS main office is currently located in multiple buildings along Main Street.

Upon being certified as a community mental health agency, the primary focus of services was on providing quality diagnostic evaluations and individual counseling to delinquent/unruly youth and sex offender treatment services. A significant portion of the client population serviced by MOPS were youth who were placed through foster care agencies.

From 1996 through 2002, MOPS experienced an average of 50 Percent annual growth. Because of a change in the political and economic environment in 1998, it became possible for MOPS to provide services to residents from anywhere in Ohio. As a result, a significant quantity of services began to be provided to residents from Central and Southern Ohio. Currently, approximately 40 to 50 percent of the client populations serviced are from outside of the Fairfield County area.

In 2004, MOPS expanded by opening a clinic location in Franklin County at Eastland Executive Square on Hamilton Road in Columbus. This Clinic initially focused on adolescent clients and sexual offenders counseling for adolescents. Additional services have been made available as client needs dictate. This location has expanded multiple times over the past nine years to accommodate growth.

In 2005, MOPS was granted CARF certification.

In 2007, MOPS expanded services in Fairfield County by adding staff on-site at Fairfield County Job and Family Services and Fairfield County Municipal Court.

In 2008, MOPS expanded services available in Delaware County by adding staff on-site at Delaware County Job and Family Services. The agency has also formalized a long history of providing internship opportunities to psychology students by joining the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and internship Centers (APPIC).

In April 2010 we added a fourth location in Delaware Ohio, expanding on the services that we had been providing through their Children Services beginning in 2008.

In October 2010 we opened our fifth location, in Chillicothe Ohio.

Expanding beyond our original client population of sex offenders (currently reflecting less than 20% of our total client population) and persons referred by Children Services, MOPS now provides a full continuum of mental health services for residents of Central and Southern Ohio. MOPS also provides an extensive array of forensic mental health services including a mental health court liaison for the adult court system in Fairfield County. MOPS provides a full-time case manager for severely mentally ill individuals who are involved with the adult criminal justice system. MOPS provides a number of alternative sentencing programs including sexual offender groups for adult sex offenders, developmentally disabled sex offenders, and sexually aggressive youth. MOPS also provides forensic evaluation services, including assessments for not guilty by reason of insanity, competency to stand trial, guardianship assessment, custody evaluations to aid the Court in determining the necessity for permanent custody for individuals involved with the Child Protective Services system.

MOPS provides substance abuse treatment services in the form of substance abuse assessment, individual counseling, and group counseling services.

MOPS currently employs approximately 90 individuals, including five psychologists, and various other masters and bachelor level clinicians.

MOPS utilizes a somewhat unique approach to community mental health in terms of the management philosophy, as well as clinical philosophy. MOPS utilizes a “Psychology model” clinical approach as opposed to a more traditional social work or medical model. Utilizing a psychological model, staff attempt to ensure that a clear diagnostic picture and clinical formulation are established prior to initiating treatment services. As a result, clients typically participate in more aggressive assessment using formalized instruments and a thorough psychosocial history prior to initiating services.

MOPS is operated in a community group practice structure in which clinicians are held accountable for services rendered to a particular client. As a result, typically the same clinician will conduct the diagnostic assessment and provide ongoing treatment services. A number of management techniques are utilized to ensure accountability between the clinician and the client. To support the services provided by MOPS, a state-of-the-art computer system has been developed to aid in managing clinical information, as well as billing information. This system allows clinicians to focus on the provision of services, rather than being distracted by bureaucratic demands.

The staff of MOPS continue to strive to provide quality mental health services in a fashion which is responsive to both clients and systemic needs. The agency has expanded its use of technology to develop and utilized a Standards of Care website that defines, in a dynamic fashion, the agency’s standard of care for clients based on the client’s age and treatment need and provide agency clinical staff with a centralized location for resources that support and ensure the quality of the care provided to each client.

Agency Focus and Clientele Served: Our clinical services are guided by eight principles that allow us to provide a unique approach to community mental health services.

1. Treatment cannot begin until clear clinical picture is established. Utilizing a “psychology model”, clinicians utilize a range of clinical tools to clarify this clinical picture. A clear clinical picture can best be established through client self-disclosure, the acquisition of collateral information, and the utilization of formalized assessment techniques.
2. Clinical formulation is a dynamic process and must adjust to the acquisition of new information.

3. Recovery is a process-not an event. Client determine the pace of recovery, recognizing that many forms of recovery require accountability both to oneself, as well as to an external entity.
4. Clients often lack the ability to recognize resources within themselves and within their community to address their needs on a day-to-day basis and thus, are seeking assistance in this process. An important component to most intervention strategies is the identification of both assets and liabilities within an individual and with an individual's environment which contribute to both assets and liabilities within an individual and within an individual's environment which contribute to both recovery and pathology.
5. Therapeutic intervention is a proactive response to the change process. Intervention may include utilizing community resources to leverage recovery. Intervention may include traditional counseling, but may also include modifying the client's environment or other life circumstances.
6. Intervention should be based on a sound theoretical basis and/or on empirical evidence.
7. Treatment services do not fix people's problems, but rather expedite the recovery process for individuals who are willing to engage in the recovery process.
8. All clinical practices must utilize sound ethical principles. All clinical decisions should be filtered through these three ethical constructs: 1) non-maleficence, 2) beneficence, and 3) autonomy/least restrictive environment. In FY2012 Mid-Ohio Psychological Services provided 49,663 units of service to approximately 3,376 individuals. Of the clients receiving services, 44% were male and 56% were female; 18% were children under the age of 13, 17% were adolescents, 64% were adults, and 1% were over the age of 65. Finally, 83% of the clients serviced identified themselves as Caucasian, 13% African American, and 4% as another ethnicity. The majorities of our clients have limited financial resources, and fall below the poverty line. The primary payer source is Medicaid, and most clients receive some form of government assistance.
