TYPES OF WRITING ASSIGNMENTS:

Apply what you have learned from the textbook and course lessons. These assignments should be typed and double-spaced. If you do not have access to a computer or typewriter, you may neatly print your essays. Each writing assignment is worth 20 points. You will be graded on your careful consideration of the question posed and your use of course material (i.e., the textbook and lesson) to construct a coherent, persuasive essay. You do not have to agree with everything that you read in the book. If you do have disagreements with the text, state them! But be fair and objective when responding to the material and always back up your opinions with clarity and reason.

Although you should use the textbook as a guide, please construct your essay using your own words. Always write in complete sentences and make sure that you answer the question! This might sound obvious to you, but sometimes writers get carried away and forget what it was they were asked to discuss. Please do not copy sections of the Newman text or any other book to write your essays. Any student who plagiarizes the work of another will receive an “F” for the course.

GRADING CRITERIA:

Your final grade will be determined by your performance on the five writing assignments and two exams detailed above. Each writing assignment is worth 20 points and each exam is worth 100 points. There are 300 possible points for the course and the total breaks down into three 100-point segments as shown below:

1. Five writing assignments (x 20 points) = 100
2. Midcourse exam = 100
3. Final exam = 100

Your final course grade will be calculated using the following scale:

A  270–300 points
B  240–269 points
C  210–239 points
D  180–209 points
F  179 points and below
