TAS 4040—Ethics and Organizational Social Responsibility

Three Semester Hours

PREREQUISITES:

University Requisite: None

COURSE OVERVIEW:

The globalization of society, along with greater advances in technology, has increased the complexity of ethical decision making. Every organization has the potential to impact society (positive or negative). This interface between various organizations and society is the concern of organizational social responsibility (OSR). The purpose of this course is to explore the dynamics of this interface. The review will provide the student with an opportunity to explore the positive and negative impacts these organizations have on our society and identify strategies to implement OSR.

METHODS OF COURSE INSTRUCTION:

All material for this course is print-based. Instructor and students communicate and exchange materials through postal mail. You may submit your assignments as e-mail attachments, but your graded assignments will be returned to you by postal mail.
