

View this email in your browser

Good afternoon,

I hope this finds you and your families well.

As you know the GSE has a strong commitment to equity and social justice and earlier in June, we issued this Call to Action in response to the murder of George Floyd and many others at the hands of police in our country.

In this Call to Action, we called on the GSE community and our partners to continue to work to dismantle the historical and systemic systems of racism and inequality that exist in our many structures and institutions. As part of that effort, I am sharing here with you some resources to assist you to do just that.

Please find here a collection of resources to help you teach and become more familiar with Racism, Injustice and Structural Inequality. The GSE's commitment to social justice and equity has never been stronger and our goal with these resources is to empower and equip you to understand and address the historical and systemic inequities that exist in our systems, structures, and institutions.

I would like to recognize and thank GSE's Professor Beth Rubin and her research assistant, Ms. Sonya Abrams for pulling together these resources. We will continue to update this page periodically.

Yours in the Advocacy to Eradicate Racism & Injustice,

Wanda J. Blanchett
Dean & Distinguished Professor
Rutgers Graduate School of Education

