

Institute for the Empirical Study of Language

Students Application for Membership

The Institute for the Empirical Study of Language is a not-for-profit organization housed within Ohio University. Its purpose is to promote empirical research in the many forms of language use. New members are welcome. Admission to membership is based on appropriate training for conducting empirical research on language use and a stated commitment to being involved in the activities of the Institute.

Name _____

Address _____

_____

Phone number _____ Email _____

Interest area(s) _____

_____

I wish to be a student member of the Institute for the Empirical Study of Language and agree to be involved in the activities of the institute if admitted.

_____

date

_____

signature

Please attach a curriculum vitae, resume, or other record of your educational history along with a letter describing the interests you share with the Institute and the ways you would like to participate in it.

Please return these materials to Emilia Alonso-Marks, Director, Institute for the Empirical Study of Language, Gordy 247, Ohio University, Athens, OH 45701. Visit our website at www.ohio.edu/iesl