You have promise, a great deal of potential, and a future just waiting to be developed. We’re ready with the people, programs, experiences, and facilities to help you discover your promise.

Ohio University Lancaster Campus and Pickerington Center offer a quality education that’s affordable and convenient, with the power and recognition of a major university and the comfort of a small college.

Learning for Life
Besides the increase in your earnings over a lifetime, a college education prepares you for life. You’ll be ready for on-the-job training and more education. You’ll be more confident in your communications. And you can’t put a price on the sense of accomplishment and self-esteem that come with earning your degree.

Personal Attention
Imagine taking most of your classes from professors who have earned the highest degrees possible in their fields. Ohio University Lancaster and Pickerington faculty conduct research, publish books, and present papers all over the world. Faculty in our technology programs bring real-world experience to their classrooms and labs. Our faculty members care about you and are readily accessible, with offices around the corner or up a flight of stairs.

Class sizes are small, assuring that you receive personal attention.

Student Services staff members are available until early evening Monday through Thursday and on Saturday mornings. Academic advisors help you plan your schedule and stay on track. Not sure what you want to do? Career exploration services will help you sort your interests and abilities. Student success advisors are available to assist and suggest strategies. Career Services are available to students looking for employment during their college careers and after graduation.

Fast Facts

Value
Attending a regional campus is your best educational value. Tuition at Lancaster and Pickerington is less than $5,000 per year. Compare costs and the education you receive at other four-year institutions across the state. You’ll save money by living at home, and you won’t have to give up your full- or part-time job.

More than half of our students receive financial aid in the form of scholarships, grants, and work study. Your completed OU application also serves as your application for University scholarships. Submit your FAFSA (federal student aid application) on time as most colleges and universities as well as scholarship grantors want this information.

The Campus offers many scholarships to students. Freshman scholarships range in value from $750 to over $3,000 and are awarded to beginning freshmen who have demonstrated academic achievement in high school. Many scholarships continue throughout a student’s undergraduate program. The scholarship deadline is March 1.

If you’re a high school junior or senior, be sure to explore Post Secondary Enrollment Options, the Seniors to Sophomores, and Dual Enrollment programs.

We’ll Help You Discover Your Promise
Academic advisors, student success advisors, tutors, and library reference staff are ready to help you. It’s important that you consult with these professionals as you draft your schedule, change course, or react to new developments in your life.

As an Ohio University student you’ll have access to job postings on the Lancaster Campus and many networking opportunities, as well as the range of services offered by Career Services in Baker University Center on the Athens Campus.

Recognizing Your Promise
We’ll celebrate each accomplishment with you, whether it’s Dean’s List; a victory on the court, field, or links; collaboration on a project; a special recognition in the community; and, of course, the completion of your degree program. And we’ll hold a ceremony in your honor to share your accomplishments with family and friends.
