Keynote Speaker: Piper Kerman, author of "Orange is the New Black: My Year in a Women's Prison" in this presentation, Piper Kerman will address the compelling issues and challenges for the growing number of women in the criminal justice system. After spending 13 months in a Federal Correctional Institution, Kerman explores the experience of incarceration and the intersection of her life and the lives of women she met in prison. Kerman has used her experience to promote the cause of prison and criminal justice reform. She has been called a "spokesperson for the U.S. Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on the Constitution, and the U.S. Senate Governmental Affairs Committee" during this testimony. Kerman has also been called a "first African-American woman to serve as a Justice on the Supreme Court of Ohio. She is presently a partner at the global law firm of Jones Day specializing in litigation and appellate practice. McGee Brown graduated from Ohio University in 1982 with a degree in journalism/public relations and The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law in 1985. She has honorary doctorate degrees from Urbana University, Ohio Dominican University, Wilberforce University and Central State University. She will be the 2017 Inductee into the Ohio University College of Communication Hall of Fame.

Human Trafficking is a form of modern-day slavery where people profit from the control and exploitation of others. Trafficking rates in Ohio are among the highest in the nation, as evidenced by statistics gathered by the National Human Trafficking Resource Center in Washington, D.C. In Ohio, public awareness is growing as more victims are identified and organizations and agencies work to try to support a victim-centered framework to help survivors in our communities. This presentation will address how particular agencies work to advocate for victim safety and increased community awareness of this growing problem.

A New by 5 Women: Pens to Pictures Short Film Screening and Discussion (CEU)

Christina Churchill in collaboration with Pens to Pictures, Wright State University, Founder of Pens to Pictures Program

Pens to Pictures is a filmmaking collaborative that teaches and empowers incarcerated women to tell their own stories, from script to screen. During its inaugural year in 2016, five films were made in partnership between women in Dayton Correctional Institution and the Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania artist communities. During the presentation, Christina will screen 3 of the 5 films and facilitate a post-screening discussion with the audience.

The Power of Technology: App-Actions and Actions in the Digital World
