NEW PROGRAM/ CERTIFICATE

1. Scripps College of Communication

Program Code: MSXX07

Program Name: Master of Communication

Department Name: Scripps College of Communication

Contact: Greg Newton

The Scripps College of Communication proposes development of an innovative Master of Communication (M.C.) degree that is designed to offer flexible and modular solutions for students who need to obtain additional training and expertise in emerging areas within the communication field. The M.C. requires the completion of 30 semester hours of graduate coursework. Students are required to complete 6 credit hours of core communication curriculum courses (i.e., an introductory course in graduate communication research and an applied capstone project course), to which they will supplement approved graduate-level electives. The degree will provide an adaptable set of electives that can be shaped into specific areas of demand that are relevant to career professionals in a rapidly changing workplace environment including but not limited to: media relations, strategic communication, crisis communication, emerging communication technology, health communication, inclusive workplaces, and others.

All courses will be offered through Ohio University's eCampus. Some courses may also be offered in person, through Athens Campus Online, or via blended modes if sufficient demand exists.

Program Name: Business Ethics and Social Responsibility Certificate

Department Name: Finance

Contact: Travis Davidson

Curriculum: The Business Ethics and Social Responsibility Certificate program will consist of two required courses (3 hours each) and 9 hours of elective courses for a total of 15 credit hours. Interested students in the College of Business (CoB) can broaden their education to add an emphasis on ethics in preparation for a career in the business world, while non-CoB students can gain knowledge of the importance of ethics in a business setting to complement their discipline-specific skills and understanding of ethics. The program will incorporate two required courses to give an introduction to the business environment and the associated values and responsibilities necessary to be a successful corporate citizen. The elective courses allow students to customize the certificate to align with their particular areas of interest.

4. College of Arts & Sciences

Program Code: CTX79U

Program Name: Certificate in Craft Brewing

Department Name: Chemistry & Biochemistry

Contact: Michael Held

This certificate aims to provide students with fundamental principles and concepts of biochemistry, microbiology, and engineering, as well as entrepreneurial aspects and small business ownership, all through the lens of craft brewing. Successful and consistent brewing is largely dependent on a firm understanding of the science behind the process. But craft brewing is far more than brewing science. Craft breweries are small businesses that require specific skillsets for management, planning, marketing, social media presence, and operation. Craft breweries often fail because they do not fully understand and/or appreciate the business skills necessary for small business ownership. Therefore, this program aims to help bring together students with science backgrounds with business-minded students to provide a translational, peer-led learning environment. Bringing these diverse groups of students together will facilitate the exchange of knowledge across disciplines that is lacking in many industries (not only in craft brewing).

This certificate will provide a multidisciplinary educational experience attractive to a wide variety of students across numerous colleges. Students will have the option of completing the certificate program in one of two tracks: a “science” track or a “business” track. The core coursework for both tracks will prepare students to take in their senior year a hands-on brewing science course (CHEM 4500) and a brewing case study course (CAS 4413). All students will gain valuable practical experience through internship courses (BIOS4910; CHEM4911; MGMT3730). Currently, Jackie O’s of Athens Ohio has agreed to host students for a wide variety of internship opportunities

Department Name: Scripps School of Journalism

Program Code: BJ6907

Program Name: Journalism Strategic Communications

Program Code: BJ6910

Program Name: Journalism Carr Van Anda Program

The proposed changes to the program's General Requirements will eliminate unnecessary duplication on the DARS of BRICKS requirements and allow us to maintain our breadth of knowledge goals, but also adapt to the changing political and social environment journalists now face.

Requirements for ENG II, Natural Sciences, Applied Science, IART/Fine Arts, and 2CP will be dropped from our General Requirements because they are repetitious of BRICKS requirements and it is no longer necessary to ensure that students not use these courses to meet both General Requirements and Specialization requirements in their Journalism Program. The A&S Elective requirement will also be dropped because the additional non-professional hours are no longer required for our accreditation.

Changes will be made to the HIST, ECON, ENG I, PHIL/CLWR, and AAS/WGSS requirements to direct students to the most valuable course topic areas as preparation for being journalists in the current environment.

The required 21-hour Specialization area(s) will be replaced with a requirement that students declare a Minor or Certificate Program, or create an advisor approved, minimum 15-hour, group of related courses.

Delete from College (Journalism) General Requirements:

ENG II requirement (any ENG course)

Natural Science (Tier 2 Natural Science courses)

Applied Science (Tier 2 Applied Science courses)

IART/Fine Arts (Tier 2 Applied Science courses)

Cross Cultural Perspective (Tier 2 2CP courses)

Arts & Sciences Elective (Any College of Arts and Sciences course + Public Speaking COMS 1030, 3 credit hours)

Changes to College (Journalism) General Requirements:

HIST: Take 2 HIST courses changes to Take 2 2000 level or above HIST courses (Any HIST 2000 level or above course)

ECON/Business: Take 2 ECON courses (Any ECON course) OR 1 ECON and 1 Business course from the list below (MKT 2020, ACCT BUSL, MGT) changes to Take 1 ECON course (Any ECON course)

ENG I: Change the name of this requirement from ENG I to Literature—no changes in the required course choices)

PHIL/CLWR: Take 1 PHIL or CLWR course (Any PHIL course except PHIL 1200 or CLWR course) changes to Take 1 CLWR course (Any CLWR course)

AAS/WGSS: Take 1 AAS or WGSS course (Any AAS or WGSS course) changes to Take 1 AAS course AND Take 1 WGSS course (Any AAS and WGSS course)

Changes to Specialization Area Requirement:

Delete 21-hour Specialization Area requirement (21 hours in one department OR 12 hours in one department—not MDIA, JOUR, or VISCOM--and 9 hours of related courses)

Add requirement that students declare a Minor or Certificate program, or create an advisor approved, minimum 15-hour, group of related courses.

Impact on program credit hours: These proposed changes should reduce the number of credit hours required for most students because we are deleting 2 general course requirements, but only adding 1, and depending on students' choice of Minor or Certificate program, 1-2 more courses will be dropped from required hours.

*Note CARS Courses to Replace "PHIL or CLWR" General Requirement document in OCEAN.

There are two changes being proposed:

a. Establishing the statistics requirement as being either PSY 2110 or 1110. Giving students the option of taking either PSY 2110 or 1110 is consistent with similar professional programs (nursing). Students planning to go on to Master's Degree in Social Work will be encouraged to PSY 2110.

b. Elimination of Anthropology as a coursework option. This was originally listed to become aware of cultural differences. There are now more relevant cross- cultural courses for this requirement (for the practice of social work) that also meet accreditation standards.

There are two changes being proposed to this curriculum:

- Reducing the A&S 2000 and above requirement from 60 to 50 credit hours. The change in the A&S coursework does not change the minimum number of hours for this degree; ten of the 60 hours will now be electives. The change in the ANTH requirement reflects a reduction of three credit hours.
- Elimination of Anthropology as a requirement (included in pre-major and major requirements)

Current	Proposed	Rationale
Under College Requirements A&S 2000-Level or higher- at least 60 hours must be earned from A&S coursework at or the 2000 level. This gives the student the opportunity to take more global health classes (for example) that align with the mission of the college (10 credit hours).

We are making revisions to the CFS major core curriculum and three concentrations (Child Life, Child, Adult and Family, and Gerontology).

The faculty members in the Child and Family Studies (CFS) program have reviewed the undergraduate curriculum. The changes proposed here reflect an update of the curriculum and the addition of flexibility for students with respect to course options. Additionally, adjustments were needed in the child life and pediatric health care concentration to reflect the updated 4+1 graduate program that launched last year. Also, an update on the family gerontology concentration was needed, as courses in that concentration are no longer being offered.

These changes are less than 25%. The comparison charts are listed in OCEAN 1.9.

13. University College

Program Code: BT5510

Program Name: Technical & Applied Studies

Department Name: University College

To improve the assessment process and to better align with BRICKS, the program level learning outcomes are being slightly edited for grammar and language. Additionally, the faculty, in an effort to better assess student learning and to bring the major in compliance with BRICKS, will require students to obtain 30 credits in Technical and Applied Studies (TAS) courses. This does not change the total number of credits for the major but does eliminate optional category choices. To enhance student comprehension of the program's purpose and focus on application and skill development in the major, some of the catalog language is being updated so that it is consistent throughout and reflects the inclusiveness of the program.

Summarizing, the changes are (1) language editing to the program level learning outcomes, (2) moving courses from optional to required without changing the number of credit hours for the major, (3) adding a new course to the options available under professional skills core additional requirements and (4) some language editing to the catalog.

During the Q2S transition, it seems only the DARS for the BF1940 program got updated and not the catalog. In 2018, the Registrar's office discovered the discrepancy and asked HTC to bring them into alignment by changing the DARS to reflect the catalog. This was approved without needed scrutiny and the requirements now reflect our quarter system. These requirements are not feasible for current students. As an example, students can only take a maximum of 10 studio courses in the semester system in the sophomore through senior year. The current requirements demand 15. For the benefit and ultimate success of our HTC BFA Studio Art students, it is imperative that the current requirements are updated to match the current reality. These changes, drastically reducing the number of classes required, align with the requirements from our post-Q2S DARS (2017) with a few tweaks because of course changes, etc.

We are proposing to add two courses to the HTC Business Administration major requirements. These courses, BA 1000 and BA 2000, will offer students a better foundation in the COB, giving our HTC students a common language and chance for cohort-building with non-HTC students. Students will also have the opportunity to complete milestones as a part of Guarantee+ in these courses. These are only changes to the major requirements; college requirements, including tutorials and thesis, remain the same. All courses referenced here are already approved and in the catalog. This will require students to complete 2 additional hours total and no impact to other units.

Change name of major from Geological Sciences-Environmental Geology to Geological Sciences- Environmental Water Resources to reflect change in required upper-level GEOL courses to emphasize water-related topics because retirements mean we cannot sustain the program as currently configured. Change required upper-level courses by removing classes taught by retired faculty and replace with courses we can teach, including newly developed courses. Expand list of electives to give students greater choice. No substantive changes to extra-departmental coursework, except for substitution of MATH 1300 for MATH 2301. The total credit hours decreases from 44 to 43 unless students take statistics outside of the department (46 hours).

Remove GEOL 1700 & 2710 as elective options due to faculty retirements.

Reduce number of required courses to increase curricular flexibility and accommodate upcoming faculty retirements in Geology Core Courses from 44 to 43 hours. Courses removed were moved to the advanced electives. GEOL 4060, 3700, and 4750 are newly developed water resources focused courses that will provide practical training to majors.

Revised advanced electives from 4000-level courses to the ability to complete courses from 3000- or 4000-level courses for at least 12 hours.

We would like to make the following change to our MBA with Executive Management concentration because we feel that the change will result in a better learning experience for our MBA students that have selected Executive Management as a concentration due to the emerging role that analytics plays within modern business. Our proposal calls for MBA 6560 Analytics for Executive to replace MBA 6325 Prescriptive Analytics as a required course for the MBA with Executive Management concentration.

Program Name: Economics Minor

Department Name: Economics

The Economics department faculty recently met and discussed the need to re-word the elective requirements for both majors and the minor. The current wording for the electives for our minor is the following: “Complete 9 hours” We are proposing that the new wording should be: “Complete 3 courses for at least 9 hours. At least 2 courses must be at the 3000 level or higher” Note: All economics electives are 3 credit-hour courses.

The reason for the proposed change is that we now have a longer list of 2000-level courses and we think it is a good idea to limit the number of 2000-level courses that get counted as electives. Most of our 2000-level courses generally have no/fewer prerequisites and tend to be less quantitative in nature than the 3000-level or higher courses. By limiting the number of 2000-level courses that get counted as electives, students can experience a higher level of rigor that can result in a more challenging and culminating academic experience as an Economics minor.

- An adjustment to course offerings is requested. Course hour requirement remains the same; however the course options have changed to better complement the curriculum from interdisciplinary departments across campus.
- Replace the requirement for “a grade of C or better in each major course” with “an overall GPA requirement of 2.0 in the major core classes.”

The Patton College's intent to merge the Department of Recreation and Sport Pedagogy (RSP) and the Department of Human and Consumer Sciences (HCS) into a single department. The decision to merge these two departments was made at the end of AY2019-2020 by Dean Renee Middleton in consultation with the chairs of these two departments: Dr. Beth VanDerveer (HCS) and Dr. Bruce Martin (RSP). The purpose of this departmental merger is twofold: 1) to realize greater operational efficiencies within the college and 2) to create greater opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration and curricular innovation among the programs in these departments. Faculty members in both departments have been working throughout the current academic year to facilitate the merger. These efforts have included the development of a new departmental committee structure, the development of new policies and procedures under which faculty will engage in shared governance in the department, the development of new promotion and tenure policies, among other tasks.

The faculty members from both departments held a joint faculty retreat conducted by a neutral facilitator on Friday, February 26, 2021 to develop a new department name, along with a new mission statement, vision statement, and statement of shared values for the department. The new department name that emerged from the faculty retreat is the Department of Recreation, Sport Pedagogy, and Consumer Sciences.
