OULP Welcomes Aimee Howley

by Ann Richards

Ohio University Leadership Project would like to introduce you to Dr. Aimee Howley, the newest member of the Education Administration faculty of Ohio University. She is a professor of Education Administration and a coordinator for the Rural Principal Preparation Program. Dr. Howley received her BA in Philosophy from Barnard College, her MA in Special Education from West Virginia College of Graduate Studies, and her EdD in Education Administration from West Virginia University.

Aimee began her career teaching special education. She was a building coordinator and then became the district level director for special education. She was an education faculty member and department chair at the University of Charleston and West Virginia Institute of Technology. She then served as an Educational Administration faculty member at Marshall University for seven years, assuming the position of associate dean for three and one-half of them.

Known for her strength as a researcher, she is currently working on a critical
