From the Director

Dear Friends of the Ohio University Leadership Project:

Another exciting year of professional development has begun for the participants and staff of the Ohio University Leadership Project (OULP). As noted in this edition of "EXTRA," seminars have been scheduled for the four cohorts that comprise the foundation of the work of the OULP. There is one cohort for each of the following groups, namely elementary principals, secondary principals, superintendents, and treasurers.

Participation in the seminars continues to grow. In fact, there are at this time regular participants from as far to the west as Brown, Clinton, and Highland counties; as far to the north as Fairfield, Pickaway, and Hocking counties; as far to the east as Athens and Meigs counties; as far to the south as Lawrence and Scioto counties; and from all of the other counties within the region. In addition, requests have been received for consideration of the initiation of additional cohorts in other parts of the state. For example, a request recently was made for a superintendents’ cohort in a county in Northeast Ohio.

The growth appears to reflect the involvement, commitment, and ownership that the participants have for the OULP. The project is considered to be "ours" among the participants. They are involved in the plans for and implementation of the seminars. The input of the participants is the basis upon which the seminars are developed.

The results of the professional development programs represent a rewarding dimension of the OULP. More specifically, the obtaining by the participants of strategies and approaches that can be implemented in their schools in order to help students to enjoy enhanced learning represents the most important outcome. Participants regularly share with me that they use the information learned at the seminars in order to make their schools work more effectively for the students. And the growth of the students represents the reason for our efforts.

I hope that you have a pleasant and productive school year and that you are able to make a difference for the students. Please contact me at larsonw@ohio.edu if you have any questions, comments, or suggestions. They are welcomed and would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

William Larson
Director, Ohio University Leadership Project
